Fences in Malley Cemetery will be prohibited in future

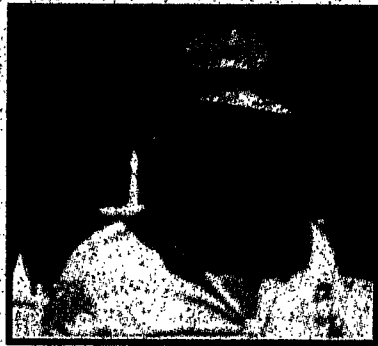

BY ED LEPOMA

C.J. Malley has taken down the fence around his first wife's grave. He's hoping others who have loved ones at the former Fenton-Sandhill Cemetery will follow suit.

Some months ago, Malley sponsored a petition and came before the Hancock County Supervisors to ask that the county cemetery be named the Alphonse Malley Memorial Cemetery in honor of his father, who donated the 11 acres of land to the county in 1916.

No one opposed the idea, but Malley also alerted supervisors to some of the abuse taking place by residents using county cemeteries and others who often pillage and rob the plots.

Malley got supervisors Philip Moran and Rocky Pullman thinking about his suggestion that the county attempt to adopt some kind of general rules with regard to burial, upkeep and security of all the county's cemetery.

There are currently five cemeteries around the county where land had been donated for the free burial of nearby residents. Besides the Alphonse Malley Cemetery off Hwy. 603 and Firetower Road, there is one located further up Hwy. 603, also known as Sandhill off the Standard/Deaux Road closer to the Standard Community. The county also cares for the Rotten Bayou Cemetery in the rear of Diamondhead, Bayou LaCoco off the Kiln-Delisle Road, and the Pearlington Cemetery.

Malley has formed a three-member Cemetery Committee made up of himself, George Shiyou and Kim Ladner, and the committee has laid down some ground rules that Malley hopes others involved in county cemeteries will adopt.

Malley said upon request, a husband and wife are provided with a 10' by 10' plot free of charge. If the couple is caring for an invalid child at home, they may request a larger plot of land. To be buried in the cemetery, you have to be a resident of Hancock County or have an immediate member of your family already buried there, he explained.

There are some exceptions, Malley said. He pointed out a couple of unfenced areas where residents considered paupers

Fences everywhere

C.J. Malley and his committee that runs the Alphonse Malley (formerly Fenton-Sandhill) Memorial Cemetery wants to ban future fencing of family plots. In some cases (as pictured here) the fences are so close to each other, it's impossible to maneuver between them to get to gravesites or clean the plots. (Echo staff photos by Ed Lepoma) have been buried.

The size of the plots had to be limited, Malley said, because when there were no rules, some residents staked out plots as large as 50' by 70', and threw up fences around their claim.

"That's not fair to future generations," said Malley. "It also means we'll run out of space sooner."

The fences are another matter. There are chain link fences around almost every gravesite at Alphonse Malley. In some cases, the fences are so close to other gravesites that it is difficult

Bay City Council takes ward-by-ward look at new zoning

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis city council members plunged into details of future zoning in a special workshop session Monday.

Squinting at maps of existing land use and zoning categories, the officials took turns dealing with proposed zoning categories on a ward-by-ward basis.

The meeting was council's third special workshop in three weeks, devoted to resolving a years-long impasse over a comprehensive plan. Several consultants have been hired by the city in recent years to craft a master plan for the city's future, but the proposals have been too controversial to win adoption.

Until the city adopts an overall comprehensive plan, it cannot zone the several hundred acres which were annexed to accommodate the development of Casino Magic. The annexation included adjoining properties in the Cedar Point area, which also remain with no zoning.

Mayor in no hurry to appoint new harbor committee

BY ED LEPOMA

Mayor Billy McDonald says he's in no hurry to appoint a new citizens committee that will serve only as an advisor to him and the Board of Aldermen on activities at the municipal harbor.

McDonald tried twice to rescind a 1990 ordinance that created a seven-member Port and Harbor Commission, but he and at least two Aldermen were befuddled by differences of opinion from the state attorney general's office.

However, at the June 2 meeting, the Board of Aldermen voted 4-1 to rescind the ordinance. Alderman Margaret Jean Kalif voted against.

The impasse was broken when the latest word came to McDonald May 22 from Attorney General Mike Moore's office. It put to rest the differences of opinion, which McDonald had mainly with Kalif and Alderman Vonnice Bodenschatz.

At a May 5 meeting, Aldermen voted to get a written reply

Pass aldermen endorse landfill: Mayor undecided

BY ED LEPOMA

Pass Christian has become the third city in Harrison County to endorse a county owned and operated sanitary landfill, but it's far from a done deal.

The Board of Aldermen voted 4-1 to endorse the proposal June 2 after a pitch from Harrison's District 3 Supervisors David LaRosa, who has taken the lead on the controversial issue of where a future landfill might be located.

LaRosa wants Harrison County to purchase about 640 acres in the northwestern part of the county near the Stone County line. He estimates land acquisition and actual construction of the landfill will cost between $6 and $7 million

School's summer lunch program fills the need

BY BETSY GAGNET

The Bay Middle School cafeteria filled up fast on Monday during lunch as food service employees served fried chicken, green beans and parsley potatoes to somewhere close to 300 children.

The chocolate cookies, however, were the biggest hit of the day.

On any given weekday during the summer, over 600 Hancock County children will be served a balanced lunch at no cost to them.

In addition to Bay Middle, meals are served at Hancock North Central Elementary and Waveland Elementary.

It's all part of a federally funded summer meals program which offers free breakfast and lunch for children up to 18 years old. Adults accompanying children can eat for $2.20.

"We get reimbursement for the meals served," explained Bonnie Logan, Bay-

Preparation best defense during hurricane season

Last year's almost non-existent hurricane season likely won't be repeated, according to Dr. William Gray of the University of Colorado. Gray predicts the 1998 hurricane season will see 10 named storms, six hurricanes, two of which will be classified as intense hurricanes. An intense hurricane is a Category Three with winds of 111 mph or greater.

Mayor sets Irwin, Patt Cucullu Day

Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre proclaimed Wednesday, June 10, 1998, as Irwin and Patt Cucullu Day.

June 10 marked the 50th wedding anniversary of the couple and also the 70th birthday of Mrs. Cucullu.

The mayor's proclamation stated, "...In 1968, tiring of big city life, (New Orleans) they purchased a home in Kiln, Miss. and became part of the Hancock County family. Fortunately, for Bay St. Louis, they purchased a home and moved to our city in 1983, and

"Whereas, since that time, Irwin and Patt Cucullu have become an integral part of the fabric of this community giving tirelessly of themselves in the aggressive promotion of the City of Bay St. Louis, the Historical Society, the Kate Lorraine House, the art community, local merchants, oak trees, and Hancock County as a whole, and

Whereas, these two remarkable people are among Bay St. Louis' most valuable citizens..."

The proclamation was issued from Mayor Favre on behalf of the Bay St. Louis City Council, city staff, and the citizens of Bay St. Louis.

Underwater environment explored in presentation

Veteran SCUBA diver Jeff LaDouce of Diamondhead will present a close-up look at the plants and animals of tropical oceans at 7 p.m. Saturday, June 13 at the J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi.

His 21-minute slide show "Underwater World" is set to music and designed to "give people an appreciation for what exists in the underwater environment." The presentation is a program in the family-oriented Aquarium Adventure Series offered quarterly at the MEC.

LaDouce, 52, is a former oceanographer with the U.S. Navy and has been an instructor for the National Association of Underwater Instructors for 11 years. He captured many of his exotic, brightly colored subjects while stationed at Guam and Hawaii. He rounds out the collection with images he recorded during visits to Bali and the Florida Keys.

"People around here sometimes don't see anything but brown water," LaDouce said. "The slide show generates questions about the ocean."

Possibilities of marinas increase at Bayou Caddy

BY ED LEPOMA

Within a year, there could be as many as three marinas at Bayou Caddy in Hancock County.

Now that the Jubilation gambling barge sits idle, the Lakeshore area has become a hot spot for new docking facilities hoping to lure commercial and pleasure boats.

The latest movement came as the Department of Marine Resources began soliciting comments this week for a 52-slip commercial marina off Shipyard Road next to Michael Cure's Bayou Caddy Fisheries.

Cure proposes a pier 1,245 feet long and 10 feet wide and a bulkhead 600 feet long and three feet above mean high water. The project would require dredging of approximately 18,600 cubic yards of material, some of which would be placed in an area on site and the remainder in an adjacent wetlands area.

Cure proposes to replace or mitigate the disturbed wetland area by donating to the state a 12-acre tract that he owns.

The DMR is soliciting comments until 1 p.m. June 22. All comments should be submitted in writing to: The Department of Marine Resources, 1141 Bayview Ave., Suite 101, Biloxi, 39530 and the Office of Pollution Control, P.O. Box 10385, Jackson, MS 39205.

Just last week, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors broke ground off Pleasure Street for a marina that will hold up to 30 to 40 commercial and pleasure boats.

The marina, boat launch and piers are being built by Malouf

Construction Co., of Madison, and may be completed in five to six months. The first phase of construction is expected to cost $1.1 million.

On Monday, Kirk Ladner, whose family operates Terry's Seafood, also off Shipyard Road, said he is waiting on initial county work to be completed so his family can begin construction on their marina.

The DMR has already held a public hearing on the Ladner application and last February issued a permit for dredging. Since then, Ladner said he met with supervisors and agreed to hold off construction until the county project got underway, but he has done some dredging already.

The Ladner site comprises about 20 acres at Bayou Caddy and is bordered by Ann Street and Shipyard Road.

Plans call for the Ladners to build a pier about 300 feet long and six feet high on the east side of their property on Ann Street. On the west side of their property, the existing boat slips would be reconfigured to allow a total of about 40 boat slips. Another pier, 850 feet long and six feet high would be constructed on the west side, along with an 850 foot long bulkhead. Two smaller inland piers would surround a boat launch area.

The construction would require the filling in of about an acre and a quarter of manmade wetlands to accommodate two drainage areas for boat storage. In return, the Ladners would pump in and fill and create another acre and a half of manmade wetlands near the entrance of Shipyard Road.

Suspect arrested in armed robbery

A Clermont Harbor man is in Hancock County jail under $1 million bond, after being arrested Tuesday morning on a charge of armed robbery.

Eugene Garcia III, 20, is accused of robbing Mississippi Two-Ten on old U.S. 90 in Pearlinton around 4:30 p.m. Monday. An undetermined amount of cash was taken.

Investigator Matt Karl of the Hancock County Sheriff's Office said eye witnesses reported Garcia walked into the loan office unmasked about 4:30 p.m. Monday, carrying a small handgun, and ordered everybody to the floor before demanding cash.

After allegedly rifling a cash box, Garcia fled in a vehicle, but one of the victims got the license number on the getaway vehicle, Karl said.

The information led to Garcia's arrest around 8:30 a.m. near the 2-mile marker as Garcia drove westbound on Interstate 10. Karl said Garcia offered no resistance when he was arrested and is cooperating in the investigation. Neither the hold-up weapon or cash has been found, Karl said.

Lawmen from Hancock County and southeastern Louisiana were involved in the search for Garcia, Karl said.

DMR official ticketed for dredging oysters

Marine Resources Commissioner Walter E. "Eley" Ross has pleaded not guilty after being ticketed May 16 in an area where dredging oysters is prohibited.

Ross was among 23 oystermen ticketed that day during a sting operation by conservation officers with the Department of Wildlife Fisheries and Parks. The oystermen were videotaped from a helicopter by the Harrison County Sheriff's Office.

Ross faces a hearing on the charges in Harrison County Justice Court on June 22, and claims he was on the legal side of the dredging ground.

The DMR has marked the boundaries with PVC pipe, and on one side of the piping, dredging is allowed and on the other side, tonging is allowed.

STORM officers

Deputy Ray Billeaud, left, of the Hancock County Sheriff's Office was elected sergeant-at-arms of Sobriety Trained Officers Representing Mississippi (STORM). He is shown with Mike Vick, law enforcement liaison, Mississippi Division of Public Safety Planning, and STORM's chairman of the board, Ron Sennett, Public Safety Planning's executive director, noted that "this organization of law enforcement officers with special skills in apprehending drunken drivers has gained national attention for its success in bringing together officers in a united effort to battle this most serious of Mississippi's traffic problems. Year after year, more than 300 Mississippi motorists are killed in motor vehicle crashes involving alcohol and other drugs; a major goal of STORM is to sharply reduce this needless loss of life."

Repairs come in under expectations

BY ED LEPOMA

Bids to repair and refurbish Pass Christian's two elevated water tanks came in more than $100,000 under engineer's estimates.

The Board of Aldermen Tuesday night followed recommendations of consultant John Campton of Garner Russell and Associates and awarded the contract to U.S. Tank of Chipley, Fla. for the bid price of $96,650.

When bids were opened on May 19, Campton told Aldermen, four of the six bids came under engineer's estimates of $200,000. "We were pleasantly surprised by this, but apparently we were lucky enough to hit the market at a time when painting contractors were needing work."

The city will float a low-interest capital improvement loan with the state to undertake the water tower repairs.

Aldermen also voted to accept the low bid of $44,020 from American Tennis Courts of Mobile to resurface the tennis courts at War Memorial Park. The firm would also repair fencing and the lighting system.

Aldermen also voted to spend $2,800 to pressure wash and repaint the public library that faces the rear of city hall on Heirn Avenue.

The Department of Marine Resources will also allow the city to use a portion of its 1998 Tidelands grant to put out to bid the repairs to the harbor fishing pier, damaged in last February's storm and high tides.

Estimates are the pier will cost $55,000 to repair and the pilings another $67,500. Bids will be advertised for on June 8.

Aldermen also voted to put out to bid the purchase of accounting software for city hall.

In other action, Aldermen voted to increase charges for the 911 emergency service in order to fund a countywide public safety communications system.

Steve Delahoussay of American Medical Response said the upgrade will cost an estimated $20 million, but it would allow all emergency personnel in Hancock County to communicate. Grant monies would also be applied for, according to Delahoussay.

Residential charges would increase from 36 cents to $1 monthly and businesses to $2. The county-wide communications plan comes before the Harrison County Board of Supervisors on Monday.

On another communications matter, Aldermen voted to switch from BellSouth to American Metrocom. The firm promises no change in the quality of the city's phone service, and estimates it can save Pass Christian as much as $6,300 over the next three years.

Before the meeting, the mayor and aldermen honored longtime activist Logan Cline for his service to Pass Christian.

Cline, now 91, served on the Harrison County Economic Development Commission for 28 years and under seven administrations and five different mayors.

He was given keys to the city, and the city declared June 2, 1998 as "Logan Cline Day."

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The cooler weather this past weekend was very much welcomed.

My buddy, Harold Masson from Waveland, was visiting a daughter in Virginia and called on Monday to say it was real cool up there.

He left home with a wardrobe of shorts only and had to purchase some long pants as temperatures dipped to 47 degrees. He had to borrow a sweater from his son-in-law.

Well, it did not get that cool here, but the few mornings the temperatures were in the 60s really felt good, especially after those 90-plus days last week with heat indexes 120 or so.

Hopefully we will have more of the cooler mornings as summer eases by.

My friend Patt Cucullu was all smiles when she dropped by the office on Tuesday afternoon.

She had received a proclamation from Bay Mayor Eddie Favre, proclaiming Wednesday, June 10, Irwin and Patt Cucullu Day.

June 10 was a big day for the Cucullus, as they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in addition to Mrs. Cucullu celebrating her 70th birthday.

As many of you know, Patt is a member of the Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau, and she and Irwin have been very faithful in promoting Bay St. Louis to tourists.

It seems that every time I stop by the Hancock County Welcome Center on Interstate 10, Patt and Irwin are there or just had been helping promote our Bay area. A belated congratulations to both Patt and Irwin on their anniversary and Patt on her big birthday.

The shrimp were reminded of the words "Shrimp Boats Are Coming" Wednesday in the Mississippi Sound. There were little, mid-size and large shrimp boats of every description chasing shrimp.

It almost looked like one could walk across the Sound on shrimp boats.

The experts report that indications are that there will be a good crop of shrimp this season in Mississippi waters.

I know one thing for sure, shrimp is the top seafood item on the menu of many folks in our area as well as across the nation.

Myself, I enjoy eating shrimp cooked just about any way.

We will be checking with shrimpers later today (Wednesday) to see what their catches reveal.

As many of you know, Sunday, June 14 is Flag Day, and a special flag raising will be held on Saturday in Bay St. Louis at the Walking Track in front of Hancock Medical Center.

A flag raising will be held at 9 a.m., and everyone is invited to participate.

Gene Schloegel, Bay Flag Memorial chairman, urges all veterans, auxiliary members, Scouts, members of organizations to come out and participate.

American flags will also be displayed along Highway 90 on the light poles for the weekend in observation of Flag Day, Schloegel reports.

I hope to see you at the flag raising on Saturday morning.

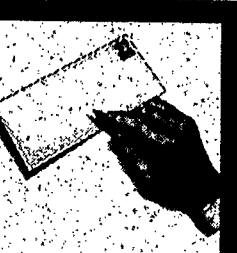

Chuck (Red Beans) Breath has been very busy recently planning the big Red Beans Day in Hancock County.

Monday will mark the eighth annual gala fund raiser for the American Heart Association.

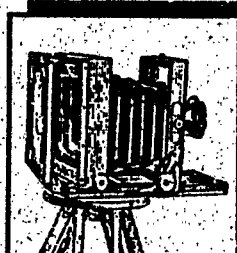

The event this year will take place at the Casino Magic Entertainment Center, Bay St. Louis.

This event is always well attended and for a very worthy cause. We will give you more information on Sunday.

Parents feel school district trying to address grading issue

To the Editor:

We would like to express our appreciation to the Bay-Waveland Schools administrative staff for the very informative meeting that was held Wednesday, June 10. They listened to parents' concerns and discussed ways to correct the situation.

One of the solutions that was discussed was to give each parent a list of the state mandated curriculum that their child should accomplish by the end of their particular grade level.

This would also include a checklist given at the end of each nine-week period which will be checked off by a 1 to 5 radio — 1 being just beginning and 5 being accomplished with the particular subject matter.

Parents in attendance seemed very interested in this solution. Along with this would be a progress report each four weeks.

Of course, this solution is in the talking stage. Each parent who is concerned about these problems should contact the principal of the elementary school their child will be attending.

There will be meetings throughout the summer concerning this matter. Please call to be on a committee to work through the concerns you have and help work out a solution.

There is also a school board meeting July 13 at 6:30 p.m. at the district office on Carroll Avenue. This matter will be on the agenda.

Please attend if you are concerned about portfolio assessment/non-graded classrooms. Be prepared to voice your opinion and ask questions or just come to listen.

Again, we appreciate the administration trying to work on the problems in a way that would satisfy all concerned.

Concerned parents,

Coach's widow would like to be visited by players

Dear Editor:

Mrs. Lance (Amelia) Lumpkin, wife of the late Coach Lance Lumpkin, is recuperating at home, 301 East 5th Street, Long Beach, after being hospitalized since August, 1997.

Mrs. Lumpkin would appreciate seeing former students and athletes who were educated and coached by the former coach of Long Beach, Bay St. Louis and Slidell, Coach Lance C. Lumpkin.

Mrs. Lumpkin can relate to wonderful stories about "Coach" and his "boys." One former athlete from Long Beach stopped by for a short visit and ended by staying three plus hours.

Myself, and cousin Sheriff Ronnie Peterson were former football players coached by Coach Lumpkin.

Tourism chief urges citizens to join Hancock RSVP

Dear Hancock County Residents:

Speaking on behalf of the Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau, I feel compelled to acknowledge the assistance that this bureau has received from an organization that we all should consider joining in the future or now, if your age qualifies you. I speak of the Hancock County RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program).

Through the continued support of these fine people and the generosity of their time, this bureau has fulfilled more than 20,000 tourism inquiries in less than a year. I am always amazed by the organization and its management's willingness to assist us with our needs quickly and expertly.

Our hat is definitely off to Joanne Lagasse, executive director, her staff and the many helping hands and minds that represent the membership. Over this last year, the members of this RSVP have assisted our efforts with our Summer Tourism Promotions at the Mississippi Welcome Center in Hancock County, the Spring Pilgrimage and the stuffing of envelopes with our brochures so that the thousands of interested potential visitors to Hancock County receive a fulfillment piece in a timely manner. Without their help, this bureau could not be the success that we are.

If you qualify to be a member of this wonderful organization and are available to donate some time to the success of your community, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program is the place for you to share and invest your talents.

Again, thank you Hancock County RSVP.

Hospitably yours,
Beth Carriere,
Executive Director

Development Bureau

—The Hancock County Landfill at Catahoula will no longer accept trees or trash. County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson said trash such as leaves, old appliances and other items not considered household garbage will be taken to the county's trash site at Standard. The Catahoula site will accept only household garbage.

A flashing yellow light is being set up at the corner of Chapman and Washington roads, but the stop signs are not going to be removed at this time. On Monday, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors accepted a petition from about 156 property owners who want the four-way stop signs at the intersection removed.

—Donald McIntyre, Waveland policeman and assistant director of Waveland Civil Defense, has been appointed Hancock County Civil Defense director, replacing Lucien Kidd who was elected Bay St. Louis city commissioner. Kidd's replacement was named at Tuesday's meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors on a motion by Beat Five Supervisor James Travira. When Travira's motion failed to receive a second, Board President Alton Keller, stepped down temporarily as chairman and seconded the motion. The final vote was unanimous.

Incumbent Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver was re-elected Tuesday after easily defeating his Republican opponent William Frisbie by 1287 to 474. Frisbie had served as Commissioner of port one. Carver will be joined on the council by post one Commissioner Lucien Kidd, who was unopposed in the general election, and Clarence Ladner, who was elected post two commissioner. Ladner got 1480 votes in Tuesday's election to defeat Independent Buford Parker who totaled only 256 votes.

—One of the recent improvements in Bay St. Louis and one which is claiming the attention of the general public is the new 1120 foot pier which is being built by St. Stanislaus and which is nearing completion. The pier is a piece of master workmanship and has been built with a view to insuring safety to students in the school and to the travelers along the beach front. The steel overpass over alternate route 90 is 14 feet above the road, and the height of wharf is 20 feet above mean low tide. The pier has two bath houses, a lower platform below the bath houses with storage area between. All lumber used, except for decking and rails, is of creosoted pine 3 inches by 10 inches of various lengths. The decking is some of the last virgin longleaf yellow pine in Hancock County. The approximate cost of the pier is $50,000 and was designed by Herbert Benson, and the general contractor is Lionel Favret, both of New Orleans. Thomas Malini was piling contractor, and Frank Miller did the painting.

A survey to determine the type of industries best suited to Hancock County will be undertaken soon by the Hancock County Progress Association. The Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board has promised to assist with such a survey, according to Lewis Henderson, association president.

—BAY ST. LOUIS MAN NOW A GERMAN WAR PRISONER—
Marinello Salvatore not very long ago was a fisherman along the Gulf Coast. Came war, Italy's call for her reserves, and Salvatore responded. Folk along the Gulf Coast, at least around Bay St. Louis, Miss., probably remember him. He gained a little fame as a boxer. The other day his friend, Andrew Manieri, of this city, received a letter. It was written in Italian and from a German prison camp. Salvatore was a prisoner, and he was hungry, and he wants the war to end quickly and wants to come back to America and fish with Manieri. Manieri wants to send the prisoner food — fish and other good Gulf Coast products. So he sent Salvatore's letter to the Bureau of Civilian Relief, Gulf Division, American Red Cross, of New Orleans. (Salvatore's letter also said that he had been taken prisoner on October 30, 1917, after having served 24 months at the front. He asked Manieri if his son Russell is the champion of the world. He asked he was a prisoner for five months and had not heard any news from his family. He also told Manieri that he would repay him for the food when he returned home from the war.) The Red Cross is going to see that Manieri gets his fish — not from the Gulf Coast, but through the Italian Red Cross.

Registration for the first week of the Hancock County Library Summer Reading Program has nearly doubled. Total registration for the first week in 1997 was 358 to the 584 that registered last Monday. The increase can be attributed, according to a library spokesman, to the program's activities which includes reading lists and storytellers as well as a promotional tie in from the Hancock County Tourism Bureau to accent the theme 'Wild about Hancock County'. The Tourism Bureau donated pith safari from their 1997 campaign 'The Hunt' to be given away to summer readers. Participants included front row from left, Scottie Tartavouille, Dylan LeBlanc and Logan Walton; second row, Brady Smith, Danielle Le Blanc, Brooke Moran and Sarah Jacobs; third row, Tanner Smith, P. J. McAuley, Rachel Jenkins and Heather Zimek; and back row, DeCede Lyons and Edward Pendergast.

With Bret Favre's cooperation, an FBI sting led to the prosecution of two Wisconsin men on charges of selling more than 1,000 phony Favre autographs.

News of the sting operation was released Monday in wire service reports following a federal court hearing in Milwaukee.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven Biskupic disclosed the Green Bay Packer quarterback's role in the operation. Biskupic said the probe began last year when authorities got a tip that Ron Marth, a sports memorabilia dealer from suburban Mequon, Wis., was selling phony Favre autographs.

An undercover agent gave Marth 50 photos of Favre and asked him to get Favre to sign them. Marth promised to get the photos signed for $3,750, Biskupic said.

Later, when Favre appeared at an autograph show organized by Marth last November, Marth asked Favre to sign five of the photographs, but Favre declined, as arranged in advance.

Even though Favre did not sign any of the photos, Marth returned the 50 photos to the undercover agent with "Brett Favre 47" scrawled on them. When shown the photos, Favre said the signature was not his.

Marth, 53, pleaded guilty to fraud charges, and in a plea bargain worked out with prosecutors, he was sentenced to one year in prison.

Rex Valenti, 26, of West Allis, Wis., was charged in the same case. Biskupic said Valenti cooperated in the investigation, and in exchange for his guilty plea on one count of aiding and abetting a wire fraud, he will likely face a six-month prison term.

The Waveland Civic Association annual kids fishing rodeo has been set for September 5-6 at the Waveland Avenue soccer field.

The Board of Aldermen approved the dates during Tuesday's regular meeting and also voted to allow free fishing from the city's pier on the days of the rodeo.

In other action, the board approved the city's Tideland's funding application for FY 2000 in the amount of $1.2 million.

The funding request is for construction of a marina between Terrace Avenue and Coleman Avenue near the Garfield Ladner Municipal Pier, said Mayor John Mason. The marina would accommodate recreational boats and sailboats, he added.

—The board approved a zoning classification change from R-1 to C-3 on a parcel of land located on Baltic Street. The land, owned by Carroll E. Glindmeyer, is described as lots 8-13 inclusive, square 170, unit 7, addition 7, Shoreline Park Subdivision. It is located in the area behind Watertower Plaza on Highway 90.

—The bid on the Waveland Avenue culvert replacement project was awarded to Twin L. Construction, Inc., the second lowest bidder, at a cost of $70,418. The Board previously voted to cancel the bid award to Dyess Construction, Inc. for failure to satisfy the bid requirements.

—The board spread on the minutes replacing McLaughlin Street with Bourgeois Street and other streets in Ward 2 on the list of street paving for FY 1997-98. The amount spent on paving within the ward will remain the same.

Ribbon cutting highlight of 2nd Saturday Artwalk

The third in the Second Saturday Art Walk of the 1998 season is set for Saturday, June 13, in the Old Town district of historic Bay St. Louis.

More than 40 participating galleries, shops and restaurants will accommodate strolling shoppers and visitors.

The third mural funded by the Mississippi Arts Commission and sponsored by the Renaissance Project will be presented to the public at 6 p.m. The mural entitled "The Life and Art of Richmond Barthe," is painted by local artist Joseph Pearson. The work celebrates the internationally acclaimed sculptor and Bay St. Louis native, Richmond Barthe. Pearson featured selected Barthe sculptures and reflections of the area's environment. In the left hand corner, Pearson takes artistic license and includes a painted bust of Miss Celestine Labat, Miss Labat's story about Richmond Barthe in the folklore book, Pearls: Myths and Memories of Hancock County introduced him to many in the community who were unaware of the artistic excellence and success achieved by this famous son of Bay St. Louis. The mural is painted on the north side of the Hancock County Annex on the corner of Main and Second streets.

The ribbon cutting will be preceded at 4 p.m. by a reception for the Hancock County Arts Center at the Blue Parrot Cafe, 200 Beach Blvd. Galleries will feature several openings and artist receptions, while each restaurant will offer "Second Saturday Specials" from their varied menus.

Each section of Old Town will be highlighted by different "hot spots," special events which generally begin in the late afternoon.

Featured exhibits include the works of photographer Shannon Baranski, exhibited at Bay Crafts Gallery, 107 N. Beach Boulevard. Baranski was born and raised in Texas, but has lived, worked and traveled in many different areas of the country and abroad.

For over 15 years she has used the camera as her "inner eye" to reflect her love of nature, children and the sea. Black and white studies and vibrant works in color will be on display.

Calligrapher Janice Forsman will present a demonstration of her beautiful style of writing at the grand opening at Past Times, 211 Main Street.

The shop will feature calligraphy, Victorian florals, candles, gifts and much more. Personalized bookmarks will be given to the first 75 customers.

Coast artist Annette Block will be at Serenity Gallery, 128½ Main Street with her new works, two and three-dimensional works, paintings in mixed media, and sculpture in ceramic, bronze and stone. She will be answering questions at the opening reception from 6-8 p.m.

Several other regional artists from "Rhino" Gallery in New Orleans will be on hand for "Rhino by the Bay." This summer exhibit represents some of the finest works of the premier contemporary crafts gallery.

The latest Mural of the Renaissance Project, "The Life and Art of Richmond Barthe," painted by local artist Joseph Pearson, will be formally presented at the ribbon cutting ceremony beginning at 6 p.m.

Live music by Bo and Dee will be sponsored by the merchants of the 200 block of Main Street between 7 and 11 p.m. near "Past Times" gallery.

For information, contact any of the galleries listed, or Ellis Anderson at 228-467-7279 or Vicki Niolet at 228-467-8318.

Area artist's sculpture on display thru August

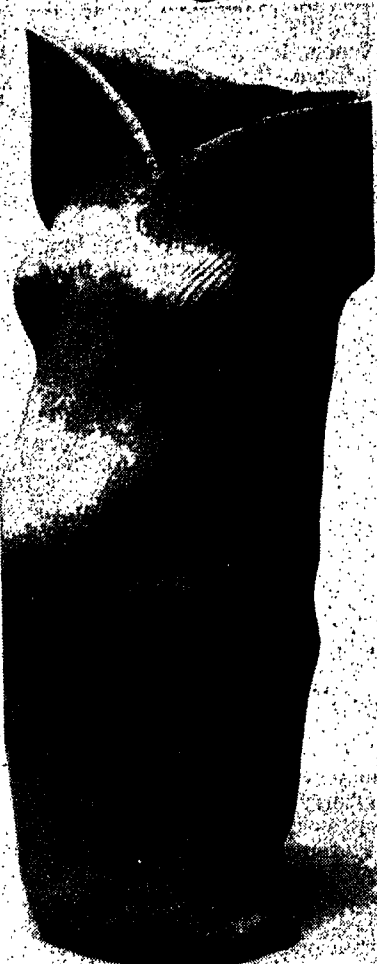

Area artist Regan G. Carney's latest series of sculpture called "Standing Change," will be featured at Quarter Moon Galleries in Old Town Bay St. Louis. The show will be on display throughout August with the opening reception from 5-9, June 13 in conjunction with Second Saturday Artwalk.

"All the pieces evolve from the movement of a sheet of clay as I stand it on end. The first work in the series was a piece that could 'rock and roll.' It made me laugh, and as I continued working much more came out in the series — happiness, anticipation, even sorrow. In my 23 years of working with clay, these pieces elicit the strongest response... people feel compelled to touch and move the shapes."

The series is created from high fired clay in earth-tone colors, often incorporating patterned surfaces with matte finishes.

The name of the series, "Standing Change," refers to the nature of the pieces, which are in a fixed state but still appear to be constantly changing.

Carney holds a BFA from Newcomb and currently teaches and manages the Bay Artist Co-op in Bay St. Louis. She will be on hand for the June 13 opening to answer questions about her work. Refreshments will be served. For information, contact Ellis Anderson at (228) 467-7279.

Red beans and rice festival set Monday

The eighth annual Red Beans and Rice Festival is set Monday, June 15 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Casino Magic Entertainment Complex.

Special guest chef for the event will be Joe Cahn, creator of the New Orleans School of Cooking. In 1996, Cahn toured the National Football League stadiums behind the wheel of a fully-quipped Holiday Rambler Coach as part of the Tailgating Across America Promotion. At his final stop, during Super Bowl XXXI in New Orleans, he presented the 1997 Tailgating Award.

The Red Beans and Rice Festival is sponsored, in part, by Casino Magic, The American Heart Association, Hancock Bank and Camellia Beans.

For more information contact, Chuck Breath at 452-2404. Tickets may be purchased at any Hancock Bank branch location.

Favre headlines BSL youth football clinic

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Hancock County's favorite son, Brett Favre, will headline the first Bay St. Louis Youth Football league's season clinic set June 29 - July 1.

The clinic, to be held at Tiger Stadium on Athletic Drive in Bay St. Louis, is open to the Bay St. Louis Youth Football League players and the players from the other conference teams.

Favre, the current All-Pro quarterback of the Green Bay Packers, will speak to the children about football and the advantages of participating in the sport and then open the talk up to questions to start the clinic.

Favre was a second round draft choice by the Atlanta Falcons in 1991 but was traded to the Packers after his rookie year. He won the starting job in Green Bay that year. Favre has achieved All-Pro status in each of his years as a Packer while winning a Super Bowl title in 1996 in New Orleans against the New England Patriots.

Favre played his high school ball under his father, Irvin Favre, at Hancock North Central High School. He later signed a scholarship to play for the Golden Eagles of the University of Southern Mississippi where he went on to a record breaking career in Hattiesburg.

Favre leads the list of volunteer instructors that include Scott Favre, James "Snuffy" Smith, Amos Fowler, Billy Thomas, Mario Muralles, Matt Karl, Mike Meyers, Robert Betcher, Dave Kenson, Tommy Spillman, Landry Kay, Joe Shaw, Bill Fleming, David Baughman, G.L. McRaney, Stace McRaney, Stewart Ladner, Stu Rayburn, Michael Gaudin, Andy Perniciaro, Rocky Gaudin, Joey Brockhoff, Mark Logan, Brennan Compretta, Don Bounds, Ode Burrell, David Brockmeyer, Lee Klein, Steve Seymour, the Bay Youth Football coaches, and numerous local high school players.

For more information on registration for the clinic, call Ree Elliott at 467-3904.

38 Special

38 Special, Foghat to rock and roll at Casino Magic

The Casino Magic Bay St. Louis June entertainment lineup starts off with a bang, featuring 38 Special June 13 and Foghat June 20.

Twenty years after beginning to rehearse in an abandoned Jacksonville, Fla., warehouse, 38 Special continues to demonstrate its durability as one of rock's premier attractions, delivering performance after performance full of the musical sincerity and showmanship on which they built their reputation.

After 15 years and 10 albums, 38 Special remains committed to reinvesting its musical legacy with new energy fueled by a unique dynamic based on years of road work and creative cooperation.

In 1992, original singer/guitarist Con Barnes rejoined the band after a five-year absence. Barnes' reunion with original members Donnie Van Zant and Jeff Carlisis (guitar) and Larry Junstrom (bass) represents an opportunity to recapture its musical roots while continuing to redefine its preeminent position as one of the South's enduring rock bands.

"When Don Barnes left 38 Special in 1987," recalls Van Zant, "not only did we lose a great singer and songwriter, but I lost a good friend with whom I had shared a lot of life's experiences. Building 38 Special together from the ground up wasn't an easy task and it took a lot of hard work and perseverance from all of us."

Carlisis echoed this sentiment adding, "I've been proud to have been a creative force in 38 Special with Don and Donnie to have written songs which have touched a lot of fans and created a legacy that will last forever," he said.

"In 1987, we reached a decision to move in different directions, although for the following five years I remained very positive about the future and had only good memories of the past. I also feel it was a period of maturity for all of us and am now very excited to be rekindling the friendships that gave birth to the magic of 38 Special."

38 Special is known for songs such as "Hold On Loosely," "Wild Eyed Southern Boys" and many more. See them at Casino Magic June 13 at 9 p.m. Tickets are on sale through TicketMaster and the Casino Magic Gift Shop for $10, $15 and $20. No one under 21 will be admitted to the concert. Seating is reserved. Just when you think you've recouped from the 38 Special concert, you can throw yourself back into the era with Foghat on Saturday, June 20 at 9 p.m., also in the Magic Entertainment Complex at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis.

On tour, vocalist/guitarist Lonesome Dave Peverett along with band members guitarist Rod Price, bassist Tony Stevens and drummer Roger Earl give their audiences their money's worth, and then some.

"I like to get up there, sweat a lot and get the crowd whipped up," says Lonesome Dave, who gave himself a "blues" handle styled after heroes like Muddy Waters, Lighthnin' Slim, Howlin' Wolf and Sonny Boy Williamson.

"We have always been a live road band, and we're happy just to be playing," adds Rod Price. "We're playing better now than ever."

That's saying something considering the group's classic 1977 live album went on to sell more than two million copies. Foghat Live established the band as the premiere boogie monsters on the planet with its version Foghat standards like "Slow Ride" and "Fool For the City."

The record also included their popular cover of Willie Dixon's "I Just Want to Make Love To You," (originally on the '72 debut record), which first established the band as a force on then-nascent Album Rock radio. The record was a not to the band's passion for American blues and rock from Robert Johnson through Jerry Lee Lewis, Little Richard and Gene Vincent.

"We got into this for the love of the blues," says Price. "We were very happy to play the clubs three, four nights a week. If anybody turned up, it was a bonus. If we made money, it was an extra bonus... I still feel the same way."

"It doesn't matter if we're playing arenas or clubs," adds Dave, "as long as people are coming out and enjoying the shows."

"Our forte is playing live. We have made our reputation as a live band. It is instant gratification," explains Peverett. "Making an album is rewarding at the end when it turns out well."

"We've reached a point in our careers where we can say, 'Screw what anybody else wants us to play,'" laughs Rod. "I think I get more pleasure out of performing now than I ever have."

"For die hard Foghat fans, this is like a dream come true," adds Dave. "And, for those who aren't, it's a chance to become new ones."

Catch Foghat at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Saturday, June 20 at 9 p.m. Tickets are on sale through TicketMaster and the Casino Magic Gift Shop for $10, $12 and $15. No one under 21 will be admitted to the concert. Seating is reserved.

Executive Institute

Nearly three dozen upper-level managers and other leaders in state government recently completed Mississippi State's Senior Executive Development Institute. Sponsored by the university's John C. Stennis Institute of Government, the unique week-long training program provides practical knowledge on a range of public management issues. Among Class of 1998 graduates are, from left, Les Newcomb of Long Beach, Melinda A. Smith of Gulfport and Joe C. Ziegler of Bay St. Louis. Newcomb is executive director of the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District; Smith, director of the South Mississippi Regional Center; and Ziegler, tidelands administrator at the state Department of Marine Resources. With them is Stennis Institute director Marty Wiseman.

How to find the best real estate agent

With more than two million licensed real estate agents in the United States, it is no wonder many home buyers and sellers become overwhelmed at the prospect of hiring one. Why is a real estate agent needed in the first place?

"Using a professional real estate agent saves time and money," said Jeanie Malouf, CRS, with RE/MAX North Jackson in Ridgeland and president of the Mississippi chapter of Certified Residential Specialists, real estate agents who have earned the CRS designation through training and experience.

"Professional agents offer sound advice and are responsible for the marketing, negotiating and financing of homes they list. This goes well beyond placing a classified advertisement, hanging a sign in the yard and holding a couple of open houses."

The Residential Sales Council, the 43,000 member trade organization serving top-producing residential realtors, offers the following guidelines for selecting a real estate agent:

1. Qualifications and Education
Selecting a real estate professional who holds the Certified Residential Specialist (CRS) designation will ensure you are working with a licensed realtor who has completed a vigorous educational program.

Although they constitute only five percent of all realtors, CRS designees were involved in nearly 25 percent of all residential real estate transactions nationwide for the 12 months ending July 1997.

The Residential Sales Council (800/462-8841 or www.rscouncil.com) lists CRS designees in communities throughout the U.S. Ask real estate agents what educational seminars and recent courses they have taken.

2. Experience and Productivity

When you select a real estate agent, you are enlisting the services of the entire firm and are entitled to full use of the company's resources, including its marketing and management teams and support staff.

Know who will work directly on your behalf, especially if you will have limited access to the agent. Feel free to ask the real estate agent the following questions:

— How many years have you worked in the industry? How many transactions were you involved in during the last six months or year? Determining how successful the agent has been may be more significant than knowing the number of years the agent has worked.

— What is the average time a home listed with you stays on the market? How many of your listings expire unsold? The answers to these questions will determine how effectively the agent will market your home and how accurately it is priced. Remember that the market, not the agent, determines your home's value.

— Do you specialize in homes in my price range? Can you provide extensive information about my neighborhood? Just as starter homes and upper bracket mansions require different marketing strategies, look for an agent who is familiar with the type of home you are buying or selling. Make sure the agent is knowledgeable about the community and its schools, retail, businesses and other offerings.

— May I see your testimonial letters or call on three or more references? Talking to past clients who have bought or sold a home similar to yours is vital.

3. Professional Rapport
Before signing an agreement, ask yourself if your agent is aware of your real estate needs. During initial meetings, the real estate agent should listen carefully, ask questions, clarify what you said and summarize any dialogues.

If you feel comfortable with the rapport your agent has established with you, chances are the agent will be successful in negotiating with prospective buyers or sellers.

4. The Marketing plan (for sellers)

Ask for a clearly written proposal describing how the real estate agent plans to sell your home. It should include a comparative market analysis, a

Mississippi Power prepares for hurricane season

The opening of the 1998 hurricane season should remind south Mississippi residents that now is the time to prepare for a devastating storm that the area has evaded for more than 13 years.

Mississippi Power Company urges citizens to prepare now to better ensure survival and a quicker return to normal life if a hurricane strikes the area this year.

"The Mississippi Gulf Coast is blessed to have been spared from the devastating effects of a hurricane for so long," said Mississippi Power's spokesman Patrick Wylie. "But, we fear that the lull will cause complacency. The memory of Hurricane Camille should help people realize what a tragic mistake that can be."

Mississippi Power has already held numerous storm preparation meetings to ensure its employees are ready in case the worst happens. Disaster procedures have been updated and refined using knowledge gained from neighboring utilities which have suffered extensive hurricane damage in recent years.

Wylie said procedural refinements have come from improving logistics of providing equipment and materials to line crews to coming up with better methods of communicating with customers. The bottom line, Wylie said, is being able to restore electricity to customers as quickly and safely as possible.

The company's disaster plan includes safety precautions and detailed instructions for personnel to follow before, during and after a storm. Employees have checked material supplies, the condition of equipment, tools, radios and communications systems vital in power restoration efforts.

In the event of an approaching hurricane, a designated group of employees will assemble in the company's storm center in Gulfport. All restoration efforts are coordinated from this center. The company's disaster plan even has a contingency for an alternate storm center site in case the original is deemed inoperable.

"During and after a storm, employees pitch in and do whatever it takes to get the job of restoration done," Wylie said. "Manager answer telephone, accountants feed line crews, and administrative assistants help with inventory supplies."

"Hurricanes are natural to our region — we cannot do anything about that," Wylie said. "But we can be prepared to restore electricity as quickly and safely as possible in case a storm hits our area this year."

Mississippi Power Company serves more than 186,000 customers in 23 counties in southeastern Mississippi. Mississippi Power is part of Southern Company which serves more than 11 million people in the southeastern United States and is the largest private power producer in the nation.

Zoning — Ward-by-ward/step-by-step

Council members were reminded last month that they have no jurisdiction over zoning in that area. The reminder came from a woman who had applied for a variance to build a residence on North Beach Boulevard — when she realized the city has no zoning authority in the area, she withdrew her application.

A key component of the comprehensive plan is a land use scheme: a general document and map depicting how the city wants to steer development over the next couple of decades. That part of the plan is to be the foundation of a new zoning ordinance.

Monday, however, council members were making detailed decisions on parcels of property throughout the city. Council President Tad Black said each council member should deal with the zoning outline within the wards they represent.

In Ward 4, for instance, which Black represents, Black said he wants to do away with a proposed high tech industrial park zone at St. Charles Street and Old Spanish Trail. Residents of several adjoining subdivisions have been adamant in opposition to developing the vacant parcel in that way.

In general, Black pushed to have most of his ward zoned for R-1 usage, the most restrictive residential classification. He said he had no problem in a new neighborhood commercial zoning classification for the several businesses that are located on South Beach Boulevard, at the foot of Washington Street. Those businesses currently exist as non-conforming uses in a residential classification.

Other council members took turns proposing changes in their respective wards. Ward 3 council member Connie Lampley balked at one land use plan for her area which shows a great deal of intense multi-family development. She said she wanted that density scaled back to R-1 and R-2 classifications.

While the decisions made in Monday's meeting carry no official status, council members probably will adhere to those ideas in later proceedings.

Before the zoning discussion, council members urged Gulf Regional Planning Commission staff to expedite a funding search for a proposed Nature Center at the Serpentine Lake area of Cedar Point. A $1.2 million development proposal has been drafted for the area, and city officials are hopeful a joint application for Tidelands Trust funding can be made with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Planner Jeff Loftus said he would pursue a number of financing options for the proposed center, possibly phasing the facility's development over several years. The proposed Nature Center site is owned by Grand Casino, and adjoins Casino Magic's holdings.

Harbor — Appointments slow

from the attorney general's office.

Alice Wise, special Asst. Attorney General, resolved two questions posed during the feud, which started last April when McDonald dissolved the Commission, saying he learned in a telephone conversation with Wise that the Commission was illegally formed, and the Board of Aldermen had the power to create only an advisory committee.

In her letter to McDonald, Wise said, "The preamble of the ordinance provides that the Commission was created for the purpose of studying, advising, making reports and/or recommendations to the Mayor and Board of Aldermen regarding the developing, maintaining and operating of the harbor facilities of said city."

Wise ruled, "The city of Pass Christian does not have general statutory authority to create a port or harbor commission and there is no existing local or private legislation authorizing the city to create a port and harbor commission."

Wise ruled further that the city's home rule charter does not allow it to appoint a Port and Harbor Commission. "This statute does not allow governing authorities to change the form or structure of municipal government and because the area of the law has been preempted by state statutes," said Wise.

Wise said, "The governing authorities of a city have the authority to repeal a prior ordinance."

Kalif had gotten an earlier ruling from Patricia F. Aston, another special assistant to the attorney general's office, which she interpreted to mean that a Port and Harbor Commission could exist, as long as it remained an advisory body, and does not make policies or decisions with regard to the harbor.

McDonald said he was undecided whether to name another seven-man committee to look over the harbor, but Harbor Master J.J. Lassabe is overlooking day-to-day operations.

He said he is reviewing professional appraisals of three businesses operating in the harbor, and will make recommendations soon on new rents each will pay.

The leases expired May 31, and McDonald has proposed five-year leases rather than the current 10 years in order to keep rents closer to market value.

Landfill — Pass endorses

The project would be financed by a bond issue, which LaRosa said could be paid off over 20 years with an additional three-quarter mills placed on the property tax.

LaRosa also wants to limit where the garbage would come from.

"Right now, (at Pecan Grove off Menge Avenue) only 29 percent of the garbage is coming from Harrison County," said LaRosa.

"We have become the central dumping area for New Orleans and Mobile," LaRosa said. His plan would be to accept garbage that would only come from the cities in the 5th Congressional District.

LaRosa said he hopes to convince Hancock and Stone counties to use the landfill.

"We can control the waste stream," said LaRosa. He estimates it would take five to six people to run the landfill and about $600,000 a year to operate it.

He also claimed that Waste Management, which now operates the Pecan Grove landfill, plans to fill suit should Harrison go forward with its own landfill.

"They plan a court challenge to tell us we do not have the authority to determine where we can locate a landfill," said LaRosa. Waste Management has about 16 and one-half years to go on its contract with the District, and spokesman Butch Lambert said if the company is forced to close Pecan Grove prematurely, it would want to be compensated to the tune of about $20 million.

A representative of a group of citizens from the Lizana community also were at the meeting, and called LaRosa "a visionary."

Before the vote, Ward 1 Alderman Jeff Emerson sought to force Mayor Billy McDonald's hand on the landfill. McDonald is the city's representative on the Harrison County Solid Waste District. The Mayor called for a vote without commenting, but has gone on the record before saying he was against the county getting back into the garbage business. McDonald takes over July 1 as Chairman of the Solid Waste District for a one-year term.

Emerson cast the only dissenting vote, and earlier LaRosa reported that the cities of d'Iberville and Long Beach have endorsed his proposal. Biloxi's Mayor A.J. Holloway, who currently chairs the Solid Waste District, doesn't seem to favor a county owned and operated landfill, and Gulfport's Mayor Bob Short is studying the matter.

It takes a unanimous vote of the six-member Solid Waste District in order to pass any bond issue or raise garbage rates, so LaRosa has a lot of selling to do before forcing the issue to a vote, but Tuesday night he told the Echo he was confident the battle would be won.

Lunch — Filling a real need

Waveland School District Food Services supervisor for the summer program. "We have to keep exact numbers."

Several area daycares and camps bring children over for breakfast or lunch.

The program, which runs through July 24, is open to all children, regardless of family income or where they attend school.

"For a few children, this is the only meal they get," said Logan.

"If you feed a few hungry children, it's worth it."

The lunch menu differs each day ranging anywhere from deli sandwiches to home fried chicken.

Without question, the most popular meal is pizza, laughed Logan.

While breakfast does not draw as many kids as lunch, certain days still bring in a crowd.

"Tomorrow (Wednesday) will be a good day. We have sausage biscuits," said cashier/cook Linda Shiyou. "When we have pancake and sausage on a stick, we're crowded."

The crowd on Monday ranged from pre-schoolers to teens, a sign the program is reaching different areas.

"It's definitely a community service," said Logan.

Flag Day ceremonies set in Bay

A Flag Day Flag Raising will be held Saturday, June 13, 9 a.m., at the Bay Flag Memorial in front of Hancock Medical Center, Highway 90, Bay St. Louis. Season — Preparations important

Lynette Carbon, director of the Hancock County Civil Defense stresses the importance of preparation before there is any direct threat of hurricanes. "Now is the time to recheck your family and business disaster supply kits," she said. "Ensure you have a three day supply of water and food that will not spoil, a first aid kit, flashlight and radio with extra batteries, and any special items needed by infants or elderly family members."

Carbon, in her first year as Hancock County Civil Defense Director, has had 12 years of experience dealing with making Hancock County ready for whatever disaster — weather-related, man-made or technological — that may arise. She began work with Bobby Boudin in 1986 as a clerk typist. The Board of Supervisors appointed Carbon to the post April 1 of this year following the retirement of Boudin who had served Hancock County since 1977.

"Hurricanes season runs from June 1 through November 30. Each year, we recommend to the residents to make preparations in advance of the hurricane season," Carbon said. "My concern is that people often become careless to the importance of being prepared before there is an actual threat of a storm."

Carbon urge people to become familiar with the weather terms describing storms and the actions necessary to prepare for a storm. "Families need to know what to do when a hurricane watch is issued. What do before you leave home. What to expect if you use a public shelter," she said. "Our office, as well as the Red Cross has a number of brochures and pamphlets that spell out the steps needing to be taken to get ready for a storm. Our tracking maps, available at the Civil Defense office, 508 Ulman Ave., has a good outline of the precautions and steps necessary to prepare for a storm."

For more information concerning hurricane preparedness contact the Hancock County Civil Defense offices 467-9226.

Cemetery — Fences coming down cult if not impossible to maneuver between gravesites.

"And, the county can't get in here to clean with any kind of heavy equipment if it wanted to," said Malley.

Besides limiting the size of plots, Malley's committee has ruled that there will be no fences erected on new plots, and no one who now has an unfenced plot can put up a fence without permission of the Cemetery Committee.

Malley said if fences are put up in violation of the rules, the committee is authorized to proceed legally to have them taken down.

Malley said the fences around gravesites have done little to discourage vandalism and thefts that often occur at the cemetery. Just recently, a Pass Christian woman was caught on videotape robbing graves at Alphonse Malley and has been convicted.

"The fences don't stop them," said Malley. "They reach over and grab the silk flowers or use a stick or something to get what they want. In advance of a burial, I try to tell the relatives not to bring the expensive silk flowers and other arrangements all at once. Move them in gradually," he said.

In an effort to ward off future incidents, supervisors plan to light all county cemeteries, and have asked the Sheriff's Department to step up patrols.

Malley, who moved back home in 1988 after a 34-year career in the oil industry in New Orleans, can be seen almost every day doing something around the cemetery. He gave the Echo a tour last week, with the temperature hovering in the 90s and the heat index around 106 degrees.

"Here's the first grave, going back to 1904," Malley explains. "That's where my half brother was buried, and here are my father's first wife, my parents and another brother." Further to the north lies Malley's first wife, who died of cancer at the age of 24. He's already taken the fence down and plans to sod the area.

The most recent burial at Alphonse Malley was that of Randy Nicaise, killed in a May car accident. His plot lies at the western edge of the cemetery and has not been fenced.

"This is family here," said Malley. "It's a sacred ground, and we want to keep it that way, but people have to learn to live by the rules, so this cemetery will be here for future generations."

Pay raises approved for Bay-Waveland

BY B. R. HAWKINS

The Bay Waveland Board of Education approved raises for teachers and teacher assistants during their meeting Monday night, June 8. Teaching assistants will each receive a state funded increase next year of $285. Teachers will receive approximately $2,500 over a three-year period in a local pay raise from the district with up to $500 coming in the next academic year.

School administrators will take home an increase that will range from one to one and a quarter times that of the teacher supplement. The Board's pay scale schedule was approved in May.

In other matters, the board approved fundraising activities for both the high school dance team and cheerleaders. Retirees, with a combined service to the school district of 104 years, were recognized by the board. Barney Nicaise, Michael Bowers, Sandra Robiller and Virginia Jones all retired from active service this year.
